Day 2 – Sat: Mexico City (Coyoacan)

During today's Mexico City tour where you will visit: The Plaza de la Constitución, known as the Zócalo, surrounded by beautiful baroque buildings including the Cathedral (the largest religious monument in the country built above the largest Aztec temple) and the National Palace, headquarters of the Presidency of the Republic, where you can admire the murals of Diego de Rivera. In contrast, visit the Templo Mayor, the great temple of the capital of the Aztecs recently discovered. Continue towards the south of the city to visit the Bazar de San Ángel (only on Saturdays), one of the most colorful in the city. Continue to Coyoacán to have lunch in a restaurant. After lunch visit the Frida Kahlo Museum better known as "La Casa Azul (The blue house)", the place where the painter was born and died. In it you will find personal objects that reveal the intimate universe of the Latin American artist, as well as some important works, such as "Viva la vida" (1954), "Frida y la Cesárea" (1931) and "Retrato de mi padre" Wilhem Kahlo (1952), among others. Back to the hotel for accommodation. [B/L]

Day 3 – Sun: Mexico City, Querétaro, San Miguel de Allende

In the morning, drive to Querétaro located at 131 miles away from Mexico City. Queretaro is the capital of the state of the same name, a very important historical city, and theater of the fight for the Mexican independence. Visit of the city and continue to San Miguel de Allende, located an hour away from Queretaro, the favorite residence of artists and intellectuals and famous for its buildings that go from Baroque to Neo-Gothic, among which you will admire how the impressive parish of San Miguel Arcángel stands out. Check in at the hotel for overnight. [B]

Day 4 – Mon: San Miguel de Allende, Atotonilco, Guanajuato

Breakfast at the hotel and departure to Atotonilco where we will visit the majestic 18th century Sanctuary dedicated to Jesus of Nazareth. In 2008 UNESCO included it in the list of World Heritage Sites for its architecture and decoration that testifies to Saint Ignatius of Loyola doctrine's influence. The church is composed of a main nave, seven annexed chapels, sacristy and six dressing rooms. The chapels are decorated with paintings by Juan Rodríguez Juárez. Continue to Guanajuato to visit this beautiful colonial city, starting with a panoramic view of the Pipila monument. Then, continue to the city center to see the Juarez Theater, the Basilica, the University, as well as city's picturesque and narrow colonial and underground streets and the famous Callejón del Beso. Check in at the hotel for overnight. [B]
