

The Legendary Pacific Coast
Sydney to Brisbane
7 Days/6 nights

Sydney - Hunter Valley - Port Macquarie - Coffs Harbour - Byron Bay - Gold Coast – Brisbane Discovery, Adventure, Nature

Day 1: Sydney, Hunter Valley (109 miles)

Pick up your rental vehicle at the Sydney Airport and commence the drive to the Hunter Valley. Take the harbor bridge or harbor tunnel north following the signs to "North Coast & Newcastle". At Wahroonga (around 30 minutes from Sydney), turn right on to the F1 Freeway heading for "Newcastle". Follow the Freeway for approximately one hour, and then take the "Cessnock" exit. Continue to follow the signs to Cessnock. After visiting the area continue to Hunter Valley for overnight at your hotel.

Cessnock was named after Cessnock Castle in Scotland by pioneer Scots settler John Campbell, who received a land grant of 2560 acres in 1826 from Governor Darling. His estate was subdivided in 1853 and a village developed. In 1856 coal was discovered and by the turn of the century this had brought prosperity to the district and a security of employment. The Cessnock area, once a favorite haunt of bushrangers as it was close to Sydney but backed on to wild bush, now encompasses over 20 towns and villages. Now, while the coal is still important, local industries include dairying, cattle breeding, mixed farming, timber milling, pottery and clothing manufacture.

Hunter Valley is the oldest wine producing area in New South Wales, with the first vines being brought here in the 1820's. It is one of Australia's more scenic wine growing areas, with the Hunter River winding its way lazily through the grapevine clad hills. Renowned for the production of top quality table wines, the Valley has wineries ranging from very large, more commercial estates to the smaller boutique style wineries.

Day 2: Hunter Valley, Port Macquarie (167 Miles)

Today, depart the Hunter Valley and travel through Cessnock and Kurri Kurri to Raymond Terrace where you join the Pacific Highway. Just north of Bulahdelah, there will be a turn-off to Forster and Tuncurry. This route is only slightly longer and the road is windier than the direct highway route, however, it is very scenic and we suggest that you take this option. On the way to Forster, you will pass Smiths Lake. The drive to Forster and Tuncurry is quite windy, but very pretty. After leaving Forster/Tuncurry, continue driving north until you re-join the Pacific Highway and travel a little further on to Taree. Continue to Port Macquarie for overnight at your hotel. [B]

Forster and its twin town of Tuncurry are linked by one of the longest pre-stressed concrete bridges in the southern hemisphere. Forster, renowned for its great beaches and its fishing, sits on a narrow strip of land between Wallis Lake and the Pacific Ocean. 10 kilometres from the town is Booti Booti National Park, which offers a dramatic range of scenery from tropical rainforest to beaches. Forster also has a number of art and craft galleries.

Taree is located on the banks of the Manning River. Taree is the commercial and industrial center of a district given chiefly to dairying, timber cutting, mixed farming and fishing. Boorganna Nature Reserve – the second one in the state – covers 396 hectares and is just over 3 ¾ miles west of the town. It features a walking track through rainforest. Three miles south of town is Kiwarrack State Forest, perfect for car tourists, as it offers a magnificent scenic drive. The best spots are the Pines Picnic Area and Breakneck Lookout. All up, it is a 6-mile through the forest. Depart Taree and follow the Pacific Highway taking the Port Macquarie exit.

Port Macquarie's golden beaches, marvelous national parks and the surrounding Hastings and Camden Haven Valleys are stunningly beautiful, natural assets. Port Macquarie, at the mouth of the Hastings River, has turned from trade and commerce to tourism and retirement with considerable success. St. Thomas' Church is a reminder of these early days; one of the very first churches to be built in Australia (1824), it has box pews and a view from its tower. The Hastings District Historic Museum has exceptionally good displays on the evolution of the town and its hinterland, and nature is on show at Sea Acres Rainforest Centre, with a long boardwalk through the rainforest.

Day 3: Port Macquarie, Coffs Harbour (109 miles)

Depart Port Macquarie and travel approximately 10 miles until you join the Pacific Highway and travel north to Kempsey and Nambucca Heads to arrive at Coffs Harbour. A scenic detour can also be taken, by leaving the Pacific Highway at Kempsey and travelling towards the coast through the town of Gladstone to reach the quiet holiday town of Hat Head. Travel north along the coast through parts of Hat Head National Park to reach the popular fishing and holiday resort of South West Rocks, with its beautiful beaches. You may also wish to visit the ruins of Trial Bay Gaol here, which dates back to the early convict settlement days. Smoky Cape Lighthouse, the highest in New South Wales, has terrific views and is well worth seeing. From South West Rocks, return to the Pacific Highway and continue to Coffs Harbour. This detour would add approximately 34 miles to your journey today. [B]

Coffs Harbour is a popular year round tourist destination. The combination of golden sand, high mountains, dense luxuriant rainforests, steep banana plantations and clear streams make it a superb holiday area. Points of interest include the Big Banana where you will find an audio-visual theater, historic exhibits, hydroponics glasshouse and banana packing shed. Coffs Promenade is a popular attraction, with many specialty shops and restaurants.

Dorrigo National Park - Within an hour's drive of Coffs Harbour is the hinterland town of Bellingen and the Dorrigo National Park, which has many walking trails. Dorrigo National Park is one of Australia's most accessible rainforest areas. The Skywalk, Walk with Birds and other areas have been designed to provide easy access and impressive viewing points. The Rainforest Visitors' Center houses a 50-seat video theater featuring the history, ecology and beauty of the rainforests in the state.

Day 4: Coffs Harbour

Enjoy a full day at your leisure in Coffs Harbour. [B]

Day 5: Coffs Harbour, Byron Bay (149 miles)

Depart Coffs Harbour via South Grafton and Maclean. At Maclean, an interesting detour to take is to join the coast road to Yamba. Yamba is a scenic and popular surfing beach and fishing resort. Rejoin the Pacific Highway back at Maclean and travel via the town of Woodburn to Ballina. At Ballina, again leave the Pacific Highway and travel along the coast road through the pretty resort town of Lennox Head, to reach Byron Bay. [B]

Lennox Head is one of those small townships, which is characterized by a large and beautiful headland to the south and a long "seven mile" beach. The Pat Morton Lookout offers excellent views from Lennox Head across Seven Mile Beach and south to Rocky Point.

Byron Bay is a mix of cultures (including the alternative) and lifestyles. Byron – "where the sun first hits the sand" – has a year-round subtropical climate, with summer temperatures dominated by a cooling offshore breeze. It's idyllic, which explains its burgeoning population and its attraction as a holiday destination. Cape Byron is the most easterly point of Australia, and is topped by an extremely powerful lighthouse. Located only 985 feet south of Australia's easternmost point, Cape Byron, the lighthouse was completed in 1901. Byron Bay has a number of surf beaches, and the breaks are famous all around the world. Wategos Beach, with its white sands and crystal waters, also has a break that is popular with bodysurfers and boogie boarders.

Day 6: Byron Bay, Gold Coast (65 miles)

Leaving Byron Bay, rejoin the Pacific Highway and travel via Brunswick Heads and Murwillumbah, crossing the NSW/Queensland border at the twin border towns of Tweed Heads and Coolangatta. Here you join the Gold Coast Highway and travel through Burleigh Heads to arrive at Surfers Paradise. A point of interest along the way is the Currumbin Sanctuary, a wildlife sanctuary about 2 ½ miles north of Coolangatta, where you can see a fine collection of Australian parrots, which come down to be hand-fed daily. [B]

Brunswick Heads maintains a maritime connection with the tidy commercial fishing fleet moored in the harbor. Brunswick Heads Nature Reserve with local flora and fauna is well worth a look at.

Tweed Heads is bustling, busy, and is the northernmost town on the New South Wales Coast. Tweed Heads shares its main street with the Queensland town of Coolangatta; they are in fact twin towns at the mouth of the Tweed River.

Surfers Paradise is the center of the Gold Coast. With a climate providing more than 300 days of sunshine per year, some of the best surfing and swimming beaches in Australia, patrolled by the largest body of lifesavers in the country, many exciting theme parks, and a lush hinterland of national parks, mountain hideaways and spectacular views, it is no wonder the area draws visitors like a magnet. Probably the greatest attraction, particularly for families, is the theme parks. You can visit Movie World for insights into movie making, stunts and pyrotechnics; Sea World for sea lion and shark shows; Dreamworld for action rides and white tigers on Tiger Island and Wet n Wild for spectacular water rides and twisters.

Lamington National Park is dominant on the skyline behind the Gold Coast beaches and is approximately a 1-hour drive from the Gold Coast. It gets its name from Lord Lamington who was the governor of Queensland from 1896 to 1902. A wide range of vegetation can be found within the park. Huge brush box, tulip oaks, giant stinging trees and buttress-rooted Moreton Bay figs are just a few of the many species which thrive there. One interesting way of viewing the park's many wonders from above is via the rainforest canopy walk. Here visitors can stroll across a suspension bridge dangling 50 feet above the forest floor. This provides hikers with a chance of coming face-to-face with some of the brilliant birds that live in the dense canopy.
