Cochin: Cochin is known as the Venice of the East, a fascinating port town that tumbles from mainland Kerala over a maze of islands and peninsulas connected by a network of bridges and ferries. A colorful blend of influences, Cochin formed the heart of the Indian spice trade for centuries, absorbing and being shaped by the many nations that came together on its shores. From giant Chinese fishing nets to Dutch palaces and Portuguese churches, a 400-year-old synagogue and the white sails of Arabic dhows, Cochin offers a mesmerizing blend of traditions, histories and architecture.

Munnar: The picturesque little town of Munnar nestled amidst acres of sprawling tea estates and verdant forests. Its name meaning "three rivers" stems from its location at the confluence of three mountain streams. Besides tea, Munnar is also renowned for its spices like cardamom and pepper, and the local infusions of tea and spices offer a warm respite from the chilly mountaintop climate.

Kumarakom is a delight for the senses. With the backwaters mirroring the blue skies and green palms overhead, few places can offer the quiet calm, tranquility and serendipity of Kumarakom making it a haven for those who want to get away from the urban hustle and bustle. Rich in tropical fruit and vegetation, bananas, mangoes, coconuts, and pineapples jostle for space with brightly colored hibiscus and bougainvillea which spill over into the backwaters.

Day 1- Kochi

You will be met on arrival and transferred to the hotel for overnight.

Day 2: Kochi

This morning you'll embark on city tour of Kochi visiting St. Francis Church. Cochin is believed to be the oldest European settlement in India and St. Francis Church was the first European church to be built in India. The history of this Church reflects the colonial struggle of European powers in India, from the 15th to the 20th Centuries. (Note: St. Francis Church is closed for visitors on Sundays from 8:00 to 11:00 am) Then, continue to Dutch Palace, built by the Portuguese in the middle of the 16th century. This structure was taken over in 1663 by the Dutch, who added some improvements before presenting it to the Rajas of Cochin. This palace is notable for some of the best mythological murals in India, particularly in the bed chambers, depicting the entire story of Ramayana. (Note: Dutch Palace is closed for visitors on Fridays and government holidays) Our next stop will be the Jewish Synagogue, an imposing structure built in 1568, when the Jews settled in Mattancherry, after their expulsion from Rahabi. Its most important relics are the impressive copper plates recording king Bhaskara Ravi Varma's 4th century decree that guaranteed the Jewish settlers' domain over Cranganore (Kodungalore). The Chinese fishing nets, a hallmark of Cochin, speak of the first traders who visited this coast from 1350 to 1450 CE. These nets are built using teak wood and bamboo poles. Huge mechanical devices hold out horizontal nets of 85 feet or more across. The Indo-Portuguese Museum, in the compound of Bishop House at Fort Kochi, is a heritage museum dedicated to the Portuguese connections in Kochi's past. Our tour ends with a visit to the Spice Warehouse. Later this evening, visit the performing arts institute to witness 'Kathakali' dance performance. The most iconic image of Kerala, is that of the traditional Kathakali dancers with their painted masks in green and white. Enjoy a behind-the-scenes look at their make-up rituals followed by a dance interpretation of gestures and facial expressions. Revel in an hour-long performance of Kathakali with a narrative selected from some of India's epic poems or mythology and discover a new form of storytelling through the medium of dance and drama. to get a glimpse into an industry that is over a hundred years old and learn the process from plant to infusion. Follow this with a visit to the Tea Museum, which houses curios, photographs and machinery representing a turning point for the tea industry in the region, and also some colonial-style furniture. Don't miss out on the tea-tasting demonstration, where infusions of different tea varieties give an insight into the nuances of tea processing! [B]
